

UNUSUAL CASE OF LAPSE OF MEMORY

William Dittgen, of Madison, Found Entirely Undressed in Barn Loft on Redding Township Farm.

HARD AT WORK PITCHING HAY

Police Start Investigation and Find that Stranger Had Been Employed in Columbus.

One of the strangest cases of lapse of memory that has come to the attention of the local police for several years is that of a stranger, giving his name as William Dittgen, and Madison as his home, who was found early today in a barn loft on the farm of Reuben Glasson, in Redding township. The man had entirely undressed himself and was hard at work pitching hay from one side of the loft to the other. His presence was discovered by members of the family who had gone to the barn to milk. He was told to come down out of the loft but refused to answer and continued at work. When informed that the officers would be called unless he dressed himself and left the farm the man acted as if he had not heard the instructions. Neighbors were notified and kept watch over the man until the arrival of Chief of Police McCord and Officer Wallace.

Dittgen's clothes were found in a pile on the hay. His hat, coat and vest were missing and the clothing which he had wore were water soaked. The police are of the opinion that he had been out in the rain during the night and had been tramping through the fields and woods. He did not know when he entered the barn or why he went there.

When Dittgen was first taken to the police station he refused to answer any questions and looked at the officers with a vacant stare. Finally he broke his silence and pronounced his name and said his brother-in-law, Henry Bilz, lived in Madison. He declared he had no other relatives. He said he had been working for the Mitchell Company in Cincinnati and for the Lincoln Chair Company in Columbus. He was not certain whether he came here from Cincinnati or Columbus, declaring at various times that he had been working at Cincinnati and came west part of the way on the train and walked part of the distance. At another time he declared he had worked as a wood carver in the Columbus factory after leaving Cincinnati.

Dittgen was prevailed upon to have a meal at the city jail but he refused, saying that he wanted nothing to eat or drink. He was given dry clothes and slept most of the morning.

Chief of Police McCord called Henry Bilz over long distance telephone this morning and was informed that Dittgen had given the right name and that originally his home was in Madison. Bilz said that so far as he knew his brother-in-law was working in Cincinnati. He said the man's mother lived in Madison and that before any arrangements were made to remove him from here he would have to talk with her. Bilz was to let the police know this afternoon what the family desired done with the man.

Dittgen talked German fluently. In fact, his first silence may have been due to his knowledge of English. An interpreter was called to the city jail and as soon as the questions were asked in German Dittgen started a conversation. He told Chief of Police McCord that he was unable to express himself clearly in English. Dittgen apparently did not know how or when he reached the Glasson barn or why he left his employment.

Chief McCord questioned him about the condition of his clothing

STATE EXHIBIT TO BE BROUGHT HERE

Pure Food Show, in charge of Dr. H. E. Barnard, to be a Feature of the Centennial Festival.

INTEREST IN EVENT GROWS

With Funds Almost All Raised, Centennial Committees Turn to Advertising and Program.

The State Pure Food and Drug Exhibit will be one of the features of the Seymour Centennial Festival next September. Word to this effect was received yesterday from Dr. H. E. Barnard, State Food and Drug Commissioner, who said that they had marked Seymour down for a visit that week, and would be glad to be here. The exhibit is said by those who have seen it to be a remarkably interesting educational display and has been shown in only a few of the larger cities of the state. Chairman Claud Carter, of the program committee, has been in correspondence with Dr. Barnard for some time in regard to securing it, and is gratified that it is to be brought here.

At the regular weekly meeting of the general centennial committee last night marked progress in the work of practically all of the committees was reported. The finance committee expects to complete its work this week and make a final report at the meeting next Wednesday evening. At that time the various committees will file estimates of the amount of money their plans will require. Later on the apportionment to the committees will be made.

The publicity committee will have its material for the "first drive" of the advertising campaign ready in a few days. Several advertising novelties have been ordered, including buttons, stickers, pennants, canvas daters, fans, etc., and will be ready for distribution at the various Fourth of July celebrations, chautauquas, etc.

At the meeting last night the matter of a manufacturers' exhibit was placed in the hands of the finance committee, who will at once take up the proposition with the various manufacturers of the city. It is believed that an exhibit even larger and more varied than the one at the 1914 Fall Festival will be arranged.

REV. STEELE, TEMPERANCE SPEAKER, CALLED HOME

Meeting Scheduled for Tonight Cancelled When Speaker is Called to Chicago by Sickness.

Rev. John Steele, who was to have delivered a temperance address at the First Presbyterian church this evening, was called to his home in Chicago this morning by a telegram advising him that his wife had been suddenly stricken and had been removed to a hospital where it was feared an operation would be necessary. Rev. Steele received the message soon after arriving in the city this morning, and left on the first train for Chicago.

The meeting has been postponed indefinitely and it is hoped that Rev. Mr. Steele, who is the associate secretary of the Board of Temperance of the Presbyterian church, may be secured for an address at a later date.

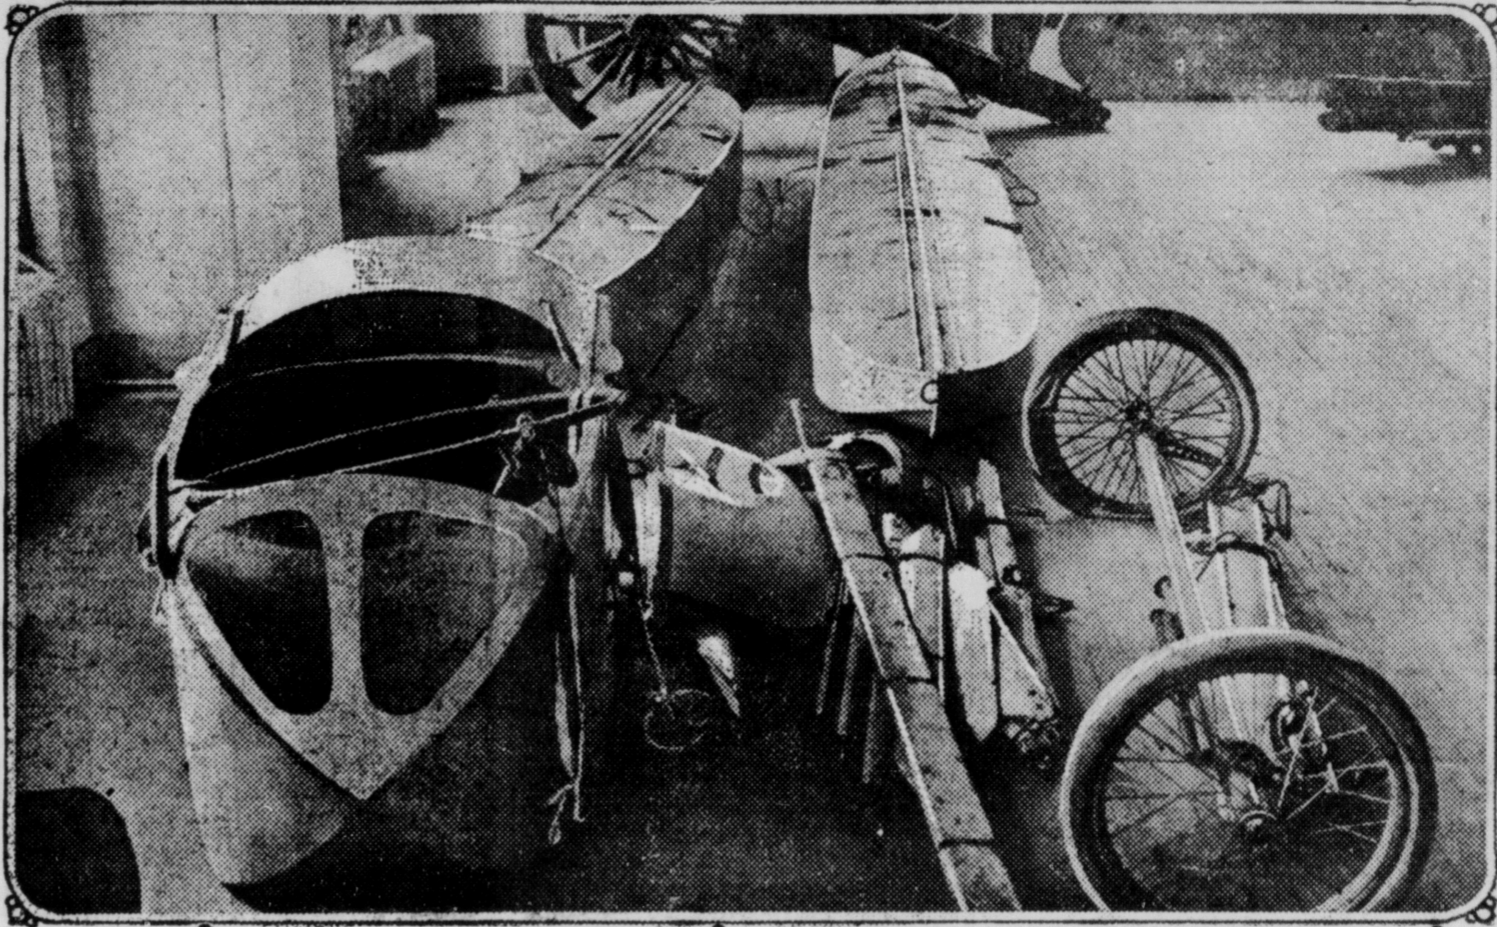

CROTHERSVILLE HAS THIRD FIRE IN A MONTH

Defective Flue Starts Flames in Summer Kitchen at Crawford Young's Home.

The summer kitchen at the rear of the home of Crawford Young in Crothersville caught fire from a defective flue Wednesday. The fire was discovered in a short time, however, and was extinguished before it had caused much damage. The fire of Wednesday night was the third in the last month and the superstitious ones in Crothersville are breathing easier now that the third fire is over, because of the fact that tradition says that conflagrations go in a series of three and after the third, weeks will follow before another will occur.

FACTORY SURVEY MADE IN COUNTY

Volunteer Field Aides Securing Data Concerning Output of Various Mills and Factories.

FOR PREPAREDNESS PROGRAM

Federal Committee Wants to Know Where Supplies Can be Bought in Case of War.

Just what supplies could be finished by the mills and factories of Jackson county in case the United States army was called into active service is the aim of the survey that is being made under the direction of the state food and drug department at the instance of the Committee on Industrial Preparedness. Maurice E. Jennings, of this city, who was appointed local field aide by the committee, has already returned several reports from the local manufacturers. The survey in this city has been turned over to Mr. Jennings.

W. A. Bruner, an inspector of the state food and drug department, is looking after the reports from the factories and mills in other sections of the county. He has visited Brownstown and the vicinity and has full reports from the several industries. Work of a similar character is being undertaken throughout the county.

The reports filed with the federal committee call for detailed information. The committee wants to know what concerns can supply the needed materials and how long will be required to fill the orders in case they are given. In order to get at these facts the field aides are asked to secure information concerning the condition of the different plants, the number of skilled employees in each, the capital stock of the companies and many other facts concerning the general standing of the companies.

In this way the committee hopes to be able to get a line on the skilled mechanics throughout the country so they will know who can be depended on to manufacture the articles needed if war should be declared.

While the committee which is undertaking this task does not necessarily expect a declaration of war by the United States upon any country, yet the members feel that a preliminary "preparedness" campaign should be waged so that the country will be ready to furnish all the needed supplies in case they are ever required.

Special to Seymour Republican.

Columbus, Ind., June 15—William Dittgen, thirty-five, who was found near Seymour today, has been missing from this city since 4 o'clock Wednesday morning. At that hour he left his rooming house and had not been heard from until the report came from Seymour that he was being held there.

Dittgen was employed at the Lincoln Chair factory and came here some time ago from Cincinnati. His wife remained in Cincinnati and she was notified today of his disappearance. Up to the time he left his rooming house he had not shown any indications of being mentally unbalanced. It is presumed here that he walked from Columbus to Seymour. He was fully dressed when he left Columbus.

SPEECH OF JAMES BRINGS APPLAUSE

Eloquent Kentucky Senator Tells Democratic Convention That Wilson is a "Master Diplomat."

PARTY IS PROUD OF RECORD

Effort Made to Speed Up the Program and Nominations May be Made Tomorrow Afternoon.

(By Perry Arnold, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Coliseum, St. Louis, June 15—His voice burning with emotion, Senator Ollie James, of Kentucky, today eloquently told the story of three years of Democratic leadership and lauded Woodrow Wilson as the greatest American of present day history. It was the secondary keynote speech of the Democratic national convention and it evoked a tremendous burst of enthusiasm.

The appeal of James was not "to swap horses while crossing a bloody stream," and a plea for the recognition of the president as a "master diplomat" and "unconquerable leader."

"The Democratic party is proud of the achievements of Woodrow Wilson," he said. "He has brought prosperity and plenty to one hundred million Americans. He has given work to every willing hand in the Republic. Every toiler has a full dinner pail—full to overflowing."

Shortly before Chairman James took the platform it became known definitely that the convention would be speeded up. The convention probably will end not later than Friday evening. Early tomorrow the nominating will begin.

WILSON'S VIEWS TO DOMINATE

Denunciation of Certain Hyphenated Organizations "Endeavoring to Influence U. S."

By United Press.

St. Louis, June 15—Certain hyphenated organizations in the United States charged with attempting to influence the course of this government in its foreign relations will be vigorously denounced in the platform to be adopted by the Democratic national convention.

President Wilson's idea on international relations, Mexico, suffrage and other issues will dominate the platform. It was learned today, however, that the tentative draft which was sent to St. Louis by Secretary Baker touches only the high spots, leaving numerous minor issues to be worked out by the resolutions committee.

Denunciation of organizations endeavoring to influence this government's policy will come in the Americanism plank. Not only will the organizations themselves be denounced but any party seeking political advantage through such organizations will be included.

Strong declarations are made that all Americans should be for America first and whole hearted allegiance should be given this government to the exclusion of all others. Confidence is expressed in the great body of citizenship regardless of race, origin or creed.

Mexico will not be mentioned by name. Neither will direct reference be made to the general submarine controversy or the Lusitania case. Woodrow Wilson will be endorsed.

San Antonio, June 15—Three American soldiers are dead as the result of a thirty-minute battle last night between Mexican bandits and three U. S. cavalry troops near San Ignacio. Seven American troopers were wounded. Bodies of six Mexicans and six dead horses were found in the brush, according to the report that Major Gray, in command, made to General Mann at Laredo.

The Mexican party which had forded the Rio Grande scattered. The American scouts are trying to find the trail and American forces will follow the Mexicans when the trail is picked up.

CONVENTION WILL CLOSE TOMORROW

Wilson and Marshall will be Renominated at a Session Beginning at 9 O'clock Tonight.

BRYAN WILL MAKE ADDRESS

In Middle of Demonstration for Senator James Crowd Begins Yelling for Nebraskan.

(By Perry Arnold, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Coliseum, St. Louis, June 15.—President Wilson and Vice-President Marshall will be renominated at a session beginning at 9 o'clock tonight and the Democratic national convention will end tomorrow.

This definite promise of quick action came today when the rules committee reported. Judge Westcott, of New Jersey, will place Wilson's name before the convention.

A stirring speech by Chairman James followed by a eleven-minute demonstration kept the delegates at fever heat today. The popularity of William J. Bryan was demonstrated when delegates shouted from the floor demanding that he be heard.

James gave definite word that Bryan will address the convention. After many had called for the commoner James said:

"The chair desires to state that Mr. Bryan has gone to the City Club to make a speech. You will have ample time to hear from him during the convention."

James started a tremendous ovation when he landed Wilson's policies.

"Without orphaning a single child, without widowing a single wife, without the firing of a single gun, I say to you Woodrow Wilson won from the most militant power that ever brooded over a battle field complete acquiescence of American rights."

In a few minutes a parade of standards started with the big Texas Lone Star flag leading. Cheering swept the hall. Indiana, Arkansas and Kentucky were among the states that joined. Senator Taggart standing beside James leaned over and shouted:

"Let him go."

Bryan sat stolidly through all the din, fanning himself and apparently oblivious of the demonstration.

Today's session was a picturesque one. It was marked by a note of defiance and a boast of President Wilson's successful maintenance of peace. It was a profession of optimism that the people would pre-empt the Wilson policies.

James concluded at exactly 1 o'clock and was given a big ovation. His collar was flopping, a wet, starchless mess over his coat, his bald head was beaded with sweat and his fringe of hair was water soaked—but James looked happy nevertheless. In his upper coat pocket he had a red fringed pocket handkerchief like a regular old-fashioned bandanna and this he used freely as he acknowledged the crowd's plaudits.

In the middle of the James demonstration the crowd began yelling, "Bryan, Bryan."

The commoner gathered up his pencils and papers and beat a hasty retreat under the stage back to the press headquarters.

The roll permanent of officers is as follows: Ollie M. James, of Kentucky, permanent chairman; J. Bruce Kramer, of Montana, permanent secretary; and John I. Martin, of Missouri, permanent sergeant-at-arms.

SUSPENSE OVER MEXICAN ASPECT

Preparations Going On to Call Out Militia.

FEAR UPRISING ANY MOMENT

In Event Intervention Is Necessary Possibly 250,000 Soldiers Will Be Put Into Mexico—Note to Go Forward After Convention.

Washington, June 15.—An atmosphere of uneasy suspense regarding the Mexican situation continues to hang over officials in Washington. Although not a dispatch was received concerning any fresh anti-American demonstrations, the state department is fearful that at any moment an uprising of some kind may occur. The same uneasiness is felt in war department circles, where, it is declared, that preparations are still going on for the calling out of additional guard organizations should they be needed.

A canvass of the military situation from the standpoint of the American government disclosed the fact that at the present time there are not more than 1,500 regulars left available in the United States proper that are not now doing service on the border.

With only 10,000 coast artillerymen left to man the harbor defenses on the east and west coasts, army officers on the general staff feel that it would be dangerous to draw any more from that source. All that remains of the mobile army, available for service, are one squadron of the Second cavalry at Fort Myers, Va., just outside this city; two squadrons of the same regiment at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.; five batteries of the Fifth field artillery at Fort Sill, Ariz., and one troop of the Thirteenth artillery at Fort Riley.

On the border and in Mexico are 13,413 officers and 35,964 enlisted men of the regular army, including about 2,000 coast artillery troops and between 2,000 and 3,000 militiamen of the national guard organizations of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

The general staff is said to regard as a minimum requirement for anything approaching general intervention in Mexico, a force of 150,000 men, although at the outset of the Pershing expedition, when it was a question of sending a punitive force in after the bandits or intervention, Major General Funston recommended for the latter alternative, a force of not less than 250,000.

In any event, should intervention become necessary, it is said, the first step would be to call out the entire national guard, now numbering about 120,000. Should more troops be needed, or should the national guard fail to respond to the extent of its full quota, which army officers regard as more than probable, it would be necessary, they say, for the president to issue a call for volunteers. It is assumed that the first call would be limited to about 50,000 men.

It is understood that the president and Secretary Lansing will have a conference when the tentative draft of the reply to Carranza's withdrawal demand, which has been prepared by Secretary Lansing, will be gone over in detail. It is planned to have the note in shape for discussion at Friday's cabinet meeting, after which its sending will be held up until Saturday night or Monday, or at least until the close of the Democratic convention. The president is said to be determined not to subject himself to the charge that the note has been framed with any view to its effect on the convention.

Did $30,000 Business a Month in Stolen Cars.

Auburn, Ind., June 15.—Willard L. A. Savage, who was arrested here several days ago and held pending an investigation of the alleged theft of an automobile, has signed a confession, saying that with several other men he had been engaged for six months in an organized system of stealing and disposing of automobiles.

In his confession he named several other men, saying the group was headed by Harry King of Chicago, who received the money from the sale of stolen cars. The business has averaged a total income for the men engaged of $30,000 a month, according to Savage, who made his statement before J. R. Nyce, prosecuting attorney; John P. Hoff, sheriff, and Frank Baltz, deputy sheriff of Dekalb county.

LOYALTY TO FLAG IS FIRST TEST--WILSON

Delivers Speech After Preparedness Parade.

Washington, June 15.—"There is disloyalty active in the United States," said President Wilson, after the preparedness parade. "It must be crushed out. It proceeds from a small minority of foreign born citizens, but from a very active and subtle minority which works underground, but occasionally throws its ugly head in full view."

"These people are now trying to levy a species of political blackmail, declaring, 'Do what we want you to do in the interest of one side in the war or we shall wreck our vengeance at the polls.'"

"America will teach these people that loyalty to the flag is the first test. That is the lesson that I come to remind you of, and I want to ask you, are you yourself going to see to it that no man is tolerated who does not honor the flag?"

The president's words were greeted with prolonged applause.

"If you could have gone with me through the few years just passed," continued the president, "you would have realized with me the subtle impact of intrigue and sedition that has been going on."

President Wilson was introduced by Secretary of State Lansing, who referred to him as "one whose every thought, word and deed manifests true Americanism."

ITALY IS IN WAR TO END

Recent Cabinet Crisis Has No Bearing on Intervention.

Rome (via London), June 15.—Since the causes of the ministerial crisis are bound to be misunderstood and misinterpreted, and especially, it is believed, in Austria and Germany, where the downfall of the Salandra-Sonnino cabinet may be regarded as a triumph, a leading member of the neutralist party stated:

"Although the Austrian offensive on the Trentino front practically provoked the ministerial crisis, still even the neutralists are convinced of the necessity of continuing the war until a complete victory has been won."

"Salandra could have averted the crisis, but instead of heeding the warnings he publicly admitted to parliament that the Austrian advance would have been checked sooner had the defenses on the Trentino been better prepared. The inevitable result was that a vote of confidence was denied the cabinet, signifying that a more energetic cabinet was needed."

RUSSIANS MAKE MORE PROGRESS

Iron Claws Close In On Czernowitz.

121,720 AUSTRIANS TAKEN

German Offensive Against Verdun Quits Down to Bring Up More Troops—Italian Forces Repulse Austrians at Several Points.

London, June 15.—On the whole 250-mile front, from the northern line of Volhynia to the Roumanian frontier, the armies of General Brusiloff have made marked progress during the past twenty-four hours, despite the fact that, according to Petrograd's admission, the Austro-German resistance has become extremely stubborn.

A furious battle is raging for the possession of the bridgehead of Czernowitz, the Bukowina capital. The Russian war office announced the capture of the city of Sniatyn, twenty miles to the northwest of Czernowitz. Vienna admitted the appearance of Russian infantry here. The investment of the city by infantry renders the defense of Czernowitz extremely perilous. The entire Austro-Hungarian army in Bukowina is in the same peril.

Important progress was also made by the Russians in Volhynia.

Six thousand men and twenty officers were added to the sum of prisoners taken since the offensive began. The total number now is nearly 121,720, including 1,720 officers.

The first massed attacks against Field Marshal von Hindenburg's lines since the offensive in the south began was delivered when, after a systematic artillery preparation by heaviest caliber guns at the Russian disposal, Muscovite forces in dense formation, launched a furious onrush against the Austro-German positions north of Baranovitch. The attack was repeated six successive times, but, according to both the German and Austrian official reports, each broke down under the Teuton fire, with serious losses to the attackers who were placed under the shellfire of their own artillery.

These attacks marked the initiation, it is believed, of a general Russian offensive in the north aimed at crushing in the Teuton front to remove the danger of a general flanking movement against General Brusiloff's army.

The attempt made by the Germans to carry the system of field works in the Thiaumont farm sector to put an end to the serious flanking fire from that quarter which has prevented further advance on the Vaux ridge has not yet been resumed.

Although the attacking Germans had succeeded in gaining a foothold on the eastern slopes of Hill 321, a half-mile west of Thiaumont farm. This success was attained only at the cost of twelve separate storming attacks in which an entire division, half Pomeranian and half Bavarian in composition, was used. This division, reports from the front indicate, suffered so severely as to be unfit for immediate further operations and the situation here, as in earlier cases at other critical points of the Verdun line, has quieted down for the moment while the German command brings up fresh forces.

The Austrians returned to the attack along the front south of the Posina torrent with a violent artillery bombardment, followed by infantry assaults on the Italian positions on four heights, Monte Forni Alti, the Campignia, Monte Clove and Monte Brazome. At all points the attackers were repulsed with heavy losses, according to the Italian official statement.

Vienna announces the bombardment by Austrian aeroplanes of San Giorgio Di Nogaro, northwest of Grado, and of the inner harbor of Grado.

NAVAL BATTLE IN BALTIC

Russians Drive Off German Fleet After an Hour's Fight.

London, June 15.—Dispatches from Copenhagen and Swedish ports tell of a naval engagement between German and Russian naval forces in the Baltic in which the Germans were driven off. It is said that early in the morning, near Hevringe, eight German trawlers, an auxiliary cruiser and two destroyers, which were conveying fourteen German steamships, were suddenly attacked by six Russian destroyers and several submarines.

About two hundred shots were fired in a fight lasting about forty-five minutes. It is reported that a German trawler, carrying five wounded men, entered Nykoping.

ORPET TRIAL THREE CORNERED FIGHT

Law, Chemistry and Medicine Clash In Court.

Waukegan, Ill., June 15.—The prosecution in the Orpet murder trial set forth bravely to pick up the broken pieces of its case and put them back together again.

The general purpose of activity is reported to be an attempt to undermine the backfire testimony of Josephine Davis, who had been expected to be a star witness for the state, but whose evidence proved a boon for the defense because of the refutation of many of her earlier statements.

A bitter three-cornered fight was staged in the courtroom when the law, chemistry and medicine clashed, the result of which, as conveyed to the jury, may convict or acquit Will H. Orpet, who is on trial for the murder of Marian Lambert, his school-days sweetheart.

The attacks of the lawyers for both sides brought out the fact that Marian Lambert died willingly, whether murdered by Orpet or by her own hand. This was evident by the fact that her clothing was in good shape, neither ruffled nor torn when the body was found.

It was also read into record for the first time that the girl died from cyanide of potassium, but whether it was originally used in crystalline or liquid form is still unknown because of the clash between the law and chemistry.

Governor Will Not Speak.

Knightstown, Ind., June 15.—Governor Ralston will not be able to attend the commencement exercises Friday at the Indiana Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' home. James E. Watson has been invited to speak in his stead and will deliver the commencement address.

SUFF VICTORY LOOMS BRIGHT

Equal Right Plank Is Regarded As Certain.

ARE READY FOR BUSINESS

Delegates Anxious to Expedite Work of Democratic Convention and Return Home—Will Be No Specific Mention of Mexico In Platform.

St. Louis, Mo., June 15.—Hope for victory for the suffragists for an equal right plank in the Democratic platform never was brighter with the suffragists, for the conviction that the platform will favor their movement grows hourly. The big question now is what form the plank will take.

Whether it will be stronger than that contained in the Republican platform, can not be forecasted until the committee takes final action.

The Democratic national convention, sitting in the Coliseum for two hours and a half, heard ex-Governor Martin H. Glynn of New York attack the Republican party's copyright on Old Glory.

The first session of the convention was made just as short as possible. William F. McCombs, the retiring national chairman, offered a funeral oration over the elephant and the Moose. Mr. Glynn attended to the business of keynoting, members of the platform and other committees were named and adjournment was taken.

The only picture of a living Democratic statesman or of any one of recent times, which was in sight, was a portrait of the president. From the skylight in the center of the roof, an expanse of glass put in for the benefit of the moving picture people, the vertical rays of the sun struck cruelly upon many an unprotected head. The national committee is having all of the proceedings of the convention filmed so that the plain people would be able to see how the Democrats of the nation nominated a president.

Conferences among leaders which have followed the arrival of Secretary Baker with first hand words from President Wilson on many features of the declaration of principles brought the status of the Democratic platform to a point where, aside from the all important issue of foreign affairs it stood substantially as follows.

No special mention would be made of Mexico and that subject would be covered by implication in general declarations outlining relations of the United States with other governments.

A permanent peace tribunal will be advocated, as will also an eight-hour day for workmen and civil service pensions. One plank will deal with child labor.

In several succeeding planks the legislative record of the administration would be set forth with reference to the federal reserve law, the trade commission act, the shipping bill, the tariff commission bill, rural credits legislation and other measures passed by congress or now being pressed by the administration.

It is also insisted that a "peace and prosperity" plank be included in the document.

The platform committee organized by electing Senator Stone, chairman, and Lewis Ricknell of South Dakota, secretary. It started public hearings with President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, who presented sixteen labor planks similar to those offered to the Republicans in Chicago last week.

The managers of the Democratic show will be lucky if they succeed in keeping the delegates here until the president and vice president have been nominated. Many are threatening to leave for home and some actually turned their duties over to alternates and left St. Louis.

The delegates were ready when they got here to renominate Wilson and Marshall without any further ado and accept the platform. They are, therefore, resentful of the plans which the leaders had made for extending the convention until at least Saturday.

BOLD ATTEMPT TO ROB BANK

Holdup Prevented by Presence of Mind of Cashier.

Toledo, O., June 15.—Just before the Auburndale suburban branch of the Continental Trust and Savings company was closed in the afternoon, a bold attempt was made to rob the institution.

Two customers had just left and O. A. Waldvogel, manager, and G. H. Seigel, his assistant, were alone in the bank, when a man rushed in with

For things hard to bake right it can't be equalled, Calumet is the world's best Baking Powder—it's moderate in price—pure in the can and pure in the baking—wonderful in leavening and raising power—the most economical to buy and to use."

Waldvogel and Seigel knocked the man down and held him until the police arrived. The man gave his name as George Shelton, age thirty-one, of Colorado Springs, Colo.

ENGLAND'S RICH WILL BE GREATEST LOSERS BY WARWorking-man in England Hoping that Hitherto Society Parasites will Have to Foot the Bills.

By United Press.

London, June 15.—Somebody is going to lose financially by the war, of course, but authorities are not agreed as to whether it will be everybody or not.

The answer most generally given is the affirmative—that all classes will suffer.

Certain optimists, however, think perhaps—they are not certain—that the masses will be better off after, than before the war. Their hope is that those who have hitherto been society's parasites will have to foot the bills.

These theorists argue:

"The parasites' money did the masses no good when the parasites had it; it can do the masses no harm to have it taken away from the parasites."

It is further argued that such a situation would imply an economic readjustment which must make for better conditions except for those who have lived in the past on production by the actual workers.

The view is not held by socialists alone. A number of men who belong to the class which must do the financial suffering, should the forecast be borne out by events, think the same thing, or, rather, are afraid the prediction is an accurate one.

It looks, as they express it, as if "the aristocracy will have to go to work."

H. G. Selfridge, the American department store proprietor, for several years now in business in London, for example, in effect expressed this opinion in a recent exclusive interview to the United Press.

Selfridge, however as a man himself actively in business, spoke of the possible development as a thing to be desired.

A good many others who agree with him want no such change because it will be at their expense, but nevertheless they believe the signs indicate that it can not be avoided.

MY CREED.

I believe in my town. I believe in her people, in her boys and her girls. I will make myself a committee of one to make this a good place in which to live and a mighty hard place to leave.

I believe in my town. I believe in her institutions, in her schools, in her churches, and her stores. I believe in the street broom and the street sweeper, and the paint pot. I believe in ne'er an empty can on vacant lots, but many a full one in the larder. Never again will I throw waste paper in the street or alley.

I believe in my town. I believe in trees, God's first temples, grass instead of ash heaps, flowers instead of weeds. May God bless the tongue that gives honest praise and commendation, and may He doubly bless the ear that is deaf to scandal and gossip. If I cannot speak good of my neighbor I will hold my peace. When it costs me nothing, at least, I will spend my money here, and by so doing, leave a part of the purchase price to circulate in the channels where its equivalent in wealth was originally created, to do good among the folks who are a part of the community of which I am a part, in the place that I call home, sweet home. I believe in my town.—National Hardware Bulletin.

Local Dairy Commended.

Following his inspection of the Swengel dairy yesterday, W. A. Bruner, State Food and Drug Inspector, had words of highest praise for the plant and the care used in marketing the milk. Mr. Swengel is installing a new clarifier, which will give him one of the most modern and completely equipped dairies in the state. "Clarification is the thirty-third degree in good milk production," said Mr. Bruner, and added that he wished he had the opportunity of securing milk from such a plant.

HOOSIERS 1816-1916(Prepared for the United Press by the

JOHN COBURN (76)

John Coburn, soldier, jurist and prophet, was born October 27, 1825 in Indianapolis. Coburn was graduated from Wabash College and after beginning the practice of law rose rapidly to judge of the common pleas court.

At the opening of the rebellion Coburn accepted a commission as colonel of the 33rd regiment and was soon promoted to brigadier general. In 1865 Coburn was elected to Congress and served eight years. It was John Coburn who was largely responsible for the retention of Spanish in the course of study at West Point when President Grant and his secretary of war had recommended dropping it. "The boy is now alive who will issue orders from Morro Castle to a people who will then be citizens of the United States," said Coburn in Congress at that time.

DOUBLE HEADER ON SUNDAY
PROGRAM AT SCHROER PARKLocal B. & O. Team to Play Cincinnati Team and Independents of This City in Bargain Day
Matinee.

Two games for the price of one is the bargain attraction offered the fans at Schroer Park Sunday afternoon. In the first game the new B. & O. S-W. team will make its initial bow of the season to a home crowd, when they play the Cincinnati B. & O. team. The local railroaders walloped the Storrs crowd in the first game of the B. & O. league season and expects to walk away with the second game Sunday.

After the two railroad teams have settled their argument, the local B. & O. boys will line up against the Independents, a newly organized team composed mostly of members of the Ottos, Voyls and Herman will be the Independent battery in this game. Pool and Green will do the mound work for the B. & O. team in the two games. Both are reputed to be real pitchers and their work, as well as the work of the entire team, will be closely watched by the fans, as it now looks like they are to have the honor of representing the Indiana division in the semifinals for the championship of the B. & O. system.

Resolutions.

Once again Death has summoned a Brother Moose, Samuel Rittenhouse, to the Eternal City, which has opened to welcome him in his home. He has completed his work in the ministering to the wants of the afflicted, in shedding light into darkened souls and in bringing joy into the places of misery, and as his reward, has received the plaudit, "Well Done," from the Supreme Master. And

Whereas, The all wise and merciful Father has called our beloved and respected brother home, and Whereas, He having been a true and faithful brother of our Mystic Order, therefore be it

Resolved, That in testimony of our loss we tender to the family of the deceased brother, our sincere condolence in their deep affliction, and that a copy of these resolutions be made a record on the minutes of our order, and a copy be sent to the family of the deceased and published in the daily newspapers.

Raises Teetotalers' Salaries.

In the July American Magazine is an article entitled "Can You Drink and Hold Your Job?" by Dr. Edwin F. Bowers, who says:

"Recognizing the loss in efficiency due to drinking, the Philadelphia Quartz Company was prompted recently to conduct a pledge campaign among its workmen. The men were offered a ten per cent increase if they would agree, in future, to use no liquor, and hereafter to avoid places where it was sold or dispensed. Ninety-nine per cent. of the men were glad to make the required promise. The manager of the plant contends it is only common sense to believe that a strictly sober man is worth more to his employers. Also, the firm expects to be more than repaid by the improvement in service it will get from sober workmen."

MARCONI FORESEES AERIAL
PASSENGER SERVICE IN U. S.Inventor Thinks Air Craft Will Make Non-Stop Runs Between New York and Chicago.(By Wilbur S. Forrest United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, June 1—(By Mail)—In future, when giant aeroplanes are making non-stop mail and passenger runs between New York and Chicago and between other American cities air passengers will be kept in minutest touch with the day's news by wireless, and officers of the aircraft will receive their orders that way, too.

This dream is legitimized today by Signor Marconi, the youthful father of the wireless, here from Italy.

Through a series of experiments carried out in Italy, Marconi announced that the problem of transmitting wireless messages to aeroplanes has been solved. Hitherto this has been impossible. Explaining the invention, Marconi said:

"Before now aeroplanes have been at a disadvantage with airships in wireless work because, while they were able to transmit messages, they have not been able to receive them. "This was because the receiving signal was too faint to be distinguished over the noise of the motor."

"We have been able to strengthen the receiving signal sufficiently to enable messages to be taken."

Great commercial opportunities are open to the wireless after the war, Marconi also announced.

Long distance transmission has been signally improved.

The wireless telephone already is playing its part in the war.

Marconi is a soldier and therefore cannot give details of his new discoveries. But he added significantly: "The war has by no means hindered the development of wireless science."

Marconi is expected to make important announcements after the war.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS TO MAKE BIOLOGICAL SURVEYEstimate of Number of Birds in U.
S. to be Made by Comparative Count.

By United Press.

Washington, June 15—When Mr. Robin Red Breast and Mr. Robert Thrush swing on the branches near their homes, enjoying the spring breeze and singing and bragging, this month, census enumerators from the United States Bureau of Biological Survey will count them.

Areally accurate count of a bird population can be made by one bird-lover going over a 60 or 80-acre unit, says the bureau.

The females, busy with spring housework are often missed; but it's a scientific fact that the males are so swagger and conspicuous that it is hard for a counter to miss them.

So the method to be employed in this census—the survey's third—is to count the males of each species, and then multiply by two to get the total.

The survey is calling for volunteer hunters. Especially it wants data on the fruit districts of the Pacific Coast and the South Atlantic and Gulf states.

Reports are wanted, too, on mountain, prairie and semi-arid regions. It doesn't ask expert knowledge.

If bird lovers will take a walk over the fields just as the sun is getting up, they'll find every bird worth counting in any sort of census singing, the Bureau further advises.

This is a prelude to an extensive campaign to persuade the country that when a bird is killed, the nation loses an asset.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Why Bogus and Buncombe in 1916?

The year 1916 in Indiana is not only one of patriotic opportunity—it is also a test of Hoosier citizenship. Centennial celebrations are being held and anticipated in every county in the State. The Indiana Historical Commission is doing its utmost to see that these are educational, historical and patriotic; that they are above the cheap and ordinary—worthy of the dignity of the Commonwealth and of the intelligence of its citizens. It is with some misgivings therefore that reports are occasionally received, announcing the securing of "high class attractions," such as Hippodrome artists, aerial performers, latest improved merry-go-rounds, expert diving girls, etc., etc, to "help" the Centennial observance. It is not a question of the Centennial celebrations being made "high brow" and solemnly serious. That is not the desire. They should be made exultant and joyful—the element of play and festivity should be prominent. But in the name of 1916, what do the barking spiels and their gaudy wares, which operate under the polite name of "concessions," have to do with a proper observance of our state's anniversary? They are bound to detract from the very things that should be emphasized, and compromise those responsible for the celebration. Crowds thus attracted are gathered at too great a cost. It is to be hoped that the citizenship of Indiana will rise above this plane of entertainment in this anniversary year of progress and patriotism.

Kitchen's Size Not Important

Efficiency in household matters naturally centers in the kitchen, the "workshop of the home," as it has appropriately been called; therefore, in planning a new kitchen, convenience (which means genuine "workableness") demands especial attention. In securing that degree of convenience essential to the entire success of a kitchen, the matter of size has not nearly as important an aspect as such details as form, general arrangement and lighting facilities.

Of size we shall therefore say little, beyond emphasizing this one point: Every square foot of area is absolutely necessary for comfortable working conditions—and for the cooperation of two or three people upon special occasions, if not every day—is not only a waste, but a nuisance in causing many superfluous steps daily.

It is apparent that for true convenience sink, table, range and dresser must be close together—and this rather points to the advantage of a comparatively small kitchen. Before deciding upon a small kitchen the owner should, however, take into consideration the fuel to be used for cooking. A coal range, for example, gives out a more intense and a more continuous heat than a gas range; therefore it is apt to make a very small kitchen uncomfortable hot.

While an all-electric equipment is seldom provided, it is entirely practicable for the kitchen of small dimensions, and the same is true of the all-gas installation. In addition to their utility for the actual cooking, gas and electricity spell greater ease in handling much of the other routine work incidental to a kitchen. Whether or not they are actually lower in cost of maintenance is, of course, a debatable point, but on the surface, at least, they would appear to incline toward greater economy, because their power may be shut off when not actually required, whereas the coal range consumes fuel continuously.

Ventilation can be promoted satisfactorily by any one of several methods. An ordinary metal ventilator, placed near the ceiling in the wall behind the range, is, of course, the simplest device. Much more expensive, and proportionately more effective, is a sheet metal hood over the range; while a third medium is a plastered hood, equipped with one or two ventilating flues. The larger these ventilating flues can be made, the better; so that they may cope with unusual as well as normal conditions—that they may, in short, be depended upon to draw off the last trace of odor when something boils over or burns. When gas is solely to be used, one large flue is ample for both the vent pipe of the range and of the hood; but for a coal range, it is necessary to have entirely separate flues, as any ventilation into the smoke flue acts as a damper.

But to arrange ventilation for the range is not sufficient; the kitchen as a whole requires facilities for an entire change of air periodically, as well as for a cross or diagonal ventilation during warm weather, abundant fresh air being one great stepping stone to efficiency. For summer ventilation, the windows should of course be equipped with full-sized screens, in order that the sash may be lowered from the top to draw off the super-heated air near the ceiling. However generous may be the storage space provided by adjoining pantries, no kitchen is complete without an abundant quota of shelves, drawers and bins. A pot-closet is likewise very desirable, if it can be incorporated naturally in the plans. It should, of course, be located as near as possible to the range, and preferably fitted with a door having ventilating openings at top and bottom. If, however, a little taste is exerted in their selection, well-made utensils of uniform material, whether aluminum, copper or enameled ware, are not in the least objectionable when hung in plain view near the range—but the separate closet nevertheless remains the better solution.

The Road to Real Joy

(By Barbara Boyd.)

Dr. Grenfell says: "Real joy comes from doing things that are worth while."

Probably few people know better the truth of this than Dr. Grenfell. Not many would seek the bleak shores of Labrador as the place to find joy. Not many would look upon work among the ignorant, poor fishermen there, as a joy producer. Many people would regard both the place and the work as hardship, pure and simple.

But Dr. Grenfell was probably thinking neither of place nor people when he said what he did. He said real joy comes from doing worthwhile things. And things that are worth while can be done in New York as well as in Labrador, in a little town of the prairies as well as in Arctic wildernesses, in the home as well as in the cabins of the poor and ignorant. It is the doing of worth-while things that brings the joy, not the place or some special work.

As to what are worth-while things, many will disagree. What would be worth while to one would not be worth while to another. One woman might consider the embroidering of a handsome centerpiece worth while. To another, this would be but a waste of time and energy. She might prefer to win a cup at golf. But to the person to whom needlework or golf or bread-making is worth while, the accomplishment of these things does bring joy—even though to some it would not be joy of a very high order. The finishing of a piece of fine beautiful work does bring joy to the needlewoman. The winning of a match at golf does bring joy to the athletically inclined and the cooking and serving of a good meal does give joy to the true housewife.

But if we would consider the subject closely, perhaps we might find some standard of worth while things. Things that endure are worth while because they are part of the eternal. Therefore if we want to do truly worth-while things, we should help in work that is permanent.

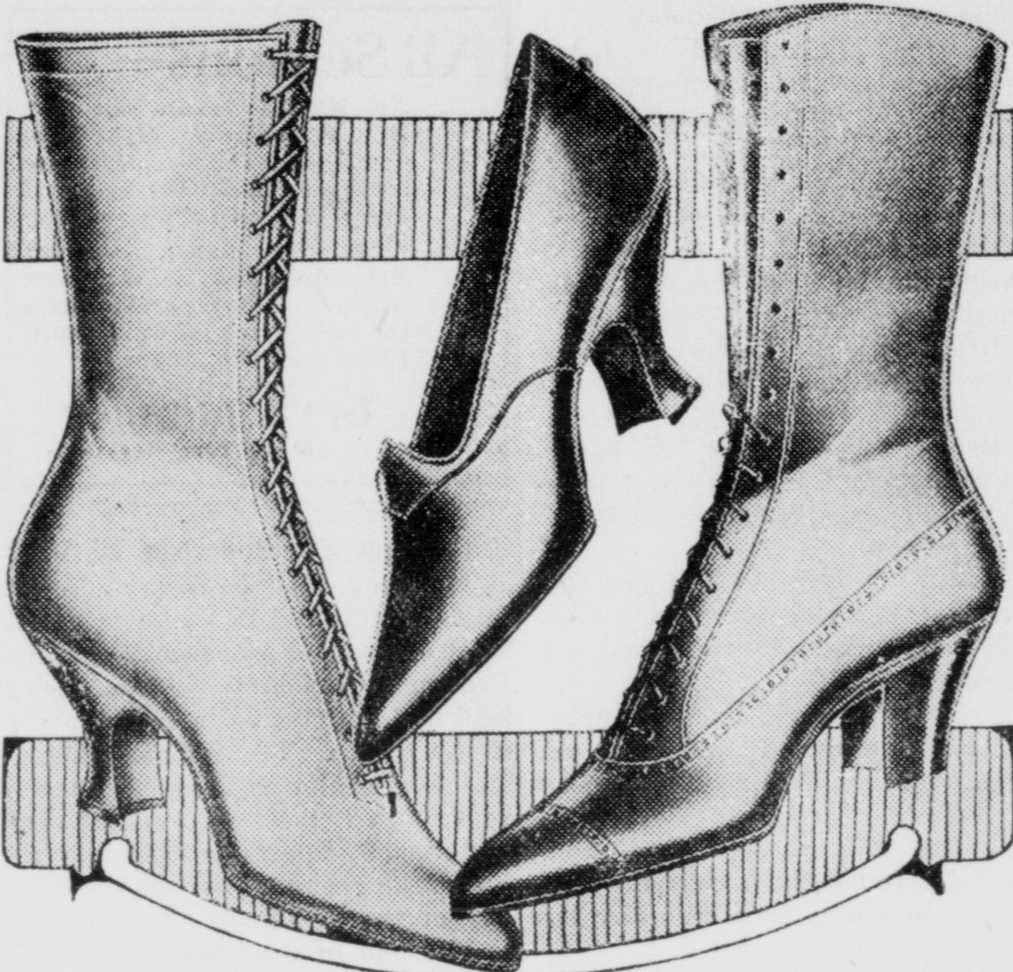

And that is probably what Dr. Grenfell meant. He was helping build lives, helping character to unfold in true, beautiful ways, spreading knowledge. Such work would go on through all time yielding greater and greater harvests as the seed of it increased. He was working with the eternal life—substance, and such work could not but give joy of the purest and keenest.

Many of us in this life are in search of joy. Dr. Grenfell prescribes a good way to find it. And then if we will do some careful, honest thinking in regard to what is worth while, we may get started upon a road to joy that will make life over for us.

A man like Dr. Grenfell does not speak idly. He has proven in his own experience the truth of what he says. To the outward eye, few places or few kinds of work could be less joy-productive than Labrador and what he undertook to do there. Yet few but will admit he has found a deep, true joy in it. But it is the essence of his labor that has given the joy, the fact that it was worth while, not the place or special kind. And it was worth while because he was working with eternal things with life substance.

Once we have found our worth-while thing to do, life will have for us what was intended for us from the beginning.

Perfection in Shoes Demanded

No matter how rich the costume may be this season, its correctness will be questioned if the shoes are not up to the high mark of daintiness and elegance set by the fashions of today. Footwear is quiet as to color and exquisite as to workmanship and it is light and finished to the last degree of excellence. Women have never been more beautifully shod.

The very short skirt has many faithful adherents and the high boot to wear with it is imperative. It comes high in more senses than one, for shoes have advanced greatly in price, with the prospect pointing to a further advance. But there is no denying the youthful look of the short skirt or the charm of neatly clad feet and ankles, therefore the high boot flourishes in the face of a shortage of leather.

Two styles in high boots and one in low shoes are shown in the illustration given above. The high shoes are made in several shades of gray and in pale tan, or the same models may be had in black or white or combinations of black with all of the lighter colors. There is a choice of styles in heels. They are only moderately high, whether following the French or urban lines.

The low shoes pictured is a favorite in black or white. The seams are outlined with a cut-out pattern that is met with everywhere in high-class footwear.

"Fur" Girls Fur Summer, Fur Wraps Have Gone "Fur" Enough

(Written for the United Press.) New York, June 15—If you have a little mole on your shoulders then this summer you will be quite the thing.

Also ermine or kolinsky shoulders are more to be desired than bare shoulders, even if the bare shoulders be bear shoulders.

In plain words the summer girl "prefers" furs on her shoulders even to wings.

Like the snows of yesterday the snowy white foxes of last summer have vanished to give place to flat capes of unspotted ermine combined with moleskin, entire cape collars of kolinsky, all mole ones or all ermine ones.

There are very quaint, old fashioned and bewitching so what matter if they be a bit uncomfortable when the thermometer, which is no respecter of furry fashions, begins to climb?

One lovely model of moleskin, shaped like a little triangular shawl, is edged with fringe of chenille and in fact all these little fur shoulder capes put more things on edge than teeth.

A wide, straight piece of kolinsky that folds stiffly around the shoulders as if it were made of cardboard, fastens in front with two gorgeously enamelled buttons and is edged in a fold of chiffon.

Yet another of mole cut like a semi-circle is finished with a tiny quilling of taupe satin and another of unspotted ermine is edged in lovely white scallops of itself.

A stunning semi-circular cape of moleskin has a wide collar of ermine scalloped on the edge and taupe ribbon ties in front that end in cunning ball pompons of the mole.

Just fresh from Paris on the shoulders of a war correspondent's wife arrived in New York the other day came the most gorgeous cape of all. It is to kolinsky that ripples full and falls to the waist line in back and in front throws flatly across the chest like a scarf and fastens on the left shoulder.

Quite the only way in which the erstwhile popular white fox is allowed to appear is a band trimming on a wee cape of unspotted ermine and as a high wide collar on the same.

On little shirred capes of taffeta bands and collar of white fox also are used.

Maribean and ostrich bands feather a few taffeta capes also in lie of fur, but this season fine feathers don't make nearly as fine birds as do fine furs.

This fur shoulder fad ought to rove a dandy reducing scheme not only for your pocketbook but also for your embonpoint.

Verily a pair of too slump shoulders swathed snugly in mole or kolinsky during the torrid months will emerge drooping perceptibly when Autumn calls.

Shrugging of shoulders as well as hugging of shoulders will all have to be done under cover however and all the poor male human moths fluttering around their adored flames this summer will undoubtedly have the companionship of a large flock of moths au naturelle, but there's one consolation—no naughty beauty will be able to turn the cold shoulder on her lovesick swain—this little old summer.

STEAMED BROWN BREAD.

Ingredients: One cup corn meal, one cup graham flour, one cup white flour, one cup sour milk, one cup hot water, one cup molasses, one teaspoon salt, one and a half teaspoons soda (level measurement). Put corn meal in mixing bowl and scald it with the hot water. Cool slightly, then add the molasses, the soda dissolved in hot water and stirred into the sour milk, then the salt and flour. Beat until light. Butter pound coffee cans and fill each about two-thirds full of the batter. Put the covers on the cans, set on a rack in a kettle of boiling water, and boil for three hours. Serve hot.

DROP CAKES.

Beat two eggs light, add two cups granulated sugar and beat again. Add one cup molasses, half cup sour milk, two tablespoons melted butter, half teaspoon soda dissolved in one tablespoon hot water, one cup each of raisins and English walnuts cut in pieces, one teaspoon each of cloves and cinnamon, and five cups flour. Mix all ingredients together thoroughly. Drop from a spoon on a well greased pan and bake in a slow oven. These are delicious.

COOKING WITH SOUR MILK.

Our grandmothers contended that baking done with "buttermilk and saleratus" was more healthful and wholesome than the newer way of using sweet milk and baking powder, and I am inclined to agree with them, says Alice D. Morford, in Farm and Home. Cakes and cookies made with sour milk and soda certainly have a flavor not to be obtained by using sweet milk and baking powder. The recipes given here have been tested many times and have never failed.

FRIED CAKES.

To one and a half cups granulated sugar add two eggs, half teaspoon salt, five tablespoons melted fresh lard, one pint sour milk, one teaspoon soda and flour enough to make a very soft dough. Fry in hot lard. A grating of nutmeg may be added if desired. If you do not care to fry all at once the dough can stand and be fried as wanted, as it improves by standing.

CORN BREAD FOR SMALL FAMILY.

To one cup sour milk add one teaspoon soda, one egg, three tablespoons sugar, half teaspoon salt, six tablespoons corn meal, and three tablespoons flour.

SPICE CAKE FOR A LARGE FAMILY.

To one and a half cups granulated sugar add one cup butter, one cup thick, sour milk, five yolks of eggs and two whites (reserving three for icing), one cup raisins cut in small pieces, two and a half cups of flour, one teaspoon each of soda, cinnamon, cloves and allspice. Bake in two layer sand put boiled icing between and on top.

CABBAGE SALAD.

Take two eggs well beaten, one-quarter cup sugar, one teaspoonful mustard, salt and pepper to taste, one-half cup vinegar, one cup cream, or one cup milk with butter size of walnut. Mix all cold, then cook in double boiler until it begins to thicken. If you want it very smooth, strain before cooling. Pour over raw cabbage chopped quite fine. This dressing is very nice for any salad.

CORN BREAD FOR LARGE FAMILY.

To three cups corn meal add one cup flour, one cup sour milk, one cup sweet milk, one egg, one tablespoon melted butter, one teaspoonful salt, one teaspoon soda, one cup sugar and molasses, half and half. Bake in a shallow pan. This is pronounced by everyone who eats it "the best corn bread ever."

"SQUATTER" CAKES.

To one cup brown sugar add two eggs beaten together, one cup molasses, one cup thick, sour cream, one teaspoon soda, half teaspoon salt, one large teaspoon ginger, and three cups flour. Drop small spoonfuls on greased tins, and bake in a moderate oven.

SOUR CREAM PIE.

To one cup sugar add one cup thick, sour cream, one egg, one cup chopped raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, and one teaspoon vinegar. Bake with two crusts. This is a delicious substitute for mince pie.

SPICE CAKE FOR SMALL FAMILY.

To one cup granulated sugar add half cup butter, two eggs, half cup sour milk, half cup molasses, one and a half cups flour, half teaspoon each of cloves, cinnamon and soda. Bake in a shallow pan.

JAM CAKE.

To one and a half cups granulated sugar add one cup butter, three eggs, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda, three cups flour, one teaspoon each of cinnamon and cloves and one large cup of any kind of jam. Bake in a loaf in a rather slow oven.

GRAHAM GEMS.

To one egg, well beaten, add third cup sugar, one cup sour milk, one level teaspoon soda, one tablespoon butter, and one heaping cup graham flour. Bake in quick oven.

Household Hints

Before putting salt in the salt shakers place your salt in a small pan near a hot stove (or if your stove isn't very hot set your dish on the top shelf of the stove); this will dry your salt and prevent it forming a lump in the shaker.

After sweeping a room which is carpeted, run a damp mop over the carpet; this will make your carpet look like new.

Use coal ashes for scouring utensils; sift the fine coal ashes through a sieve, extra fine for case knives,

Beyond the Frontier

By RANDALL PARRISH

A Romance of Early Days in the Middle West

Author of "Keith of the Border," "My Lady of Doubt," "The Maid of the Forest," etc.

The miserable little village was upon a point of land, originally covered with heavy growth of forest. A bit of this had been rudely cut, the rotting stumps still standing, and from the timber a dozen rough log houses had been constructed facing the lake. A few rods back, on slightly higher land, was a log chapel and a house, somewhat more pretensions than the others, in which the priests lodged. The whole aspect of the place was peculiarly desolate and depressing, facing that vast waste of water, the black forest shadows behind, and those rotting stumps in the foreground.

Nor was our welcome one to make the heart rejoice. Scarce a dozen persons gathered at the beach to aid us in making landing, rough engages mostly, and not among them all a face familiar. It was only later, when two priests from the mission came hurrying forward, that we were greeted by cordial speech. These invited a few of us to become guests at the mission house, and assigned the remainder of our party to vacant huts. Cassion, Chevet and Pere Allouez accompanied me as I walked beside a young priest up the beaten path, but D'Artigny was left behind with the men. I overheard Cassion order him to remain, but he added some word in lower voice, which brought a flush of anger into the younger man's face, although he merely turned on his heel without reply.

We remained at St. Ignace three days, busily engaged in repairing our canoes and rendering them fit for the long voyage yet before us. From this point we were to venture on treacherous waters, as yet scarcely explored, the shores inhabited by savage, unknown tribes, with not a white man in all the long distance from Green Bay to the Chicago portage. Once I got out the map and traced the distance, feeling sick at heart as I thus realized more clearly the weary journey.

Those were dull, lonely days I passed in the desolate mission house, while the others were busy at their various tasks. Only at night time, or as they straggled in to their meals, did I see anyone but Pere Allouez, who was always close at hand, a silent shadow from whose presence I could not escape. I visited the priest's garden, climbed the rocks overlooking the water and even ventured into the dark forest, but he was ever beside me, suave but insistent on doing his master's will. The only glimpse I had of D'Artigny was at a distance, for not once did he approach the mission house. So I was glad enough when the canoes were ready, and all preparations made for departure.

Yet we were not destined to escape thus easily from St. Ignace. Of what occurred I must write as it happened to me then, and not as its full significance became later clear to my understanding. It was after nightfall when Cassion returned to the mission house. The lights were burning on the table, and the three priests were rather impatiently waiting their evening meal, occasionally exchanging brief sentences, or peering out through the open window toward the dark water.

Cassion came in alone, yet I observed nothing strange about his appearance, except that he failed to greet me with the usual attempt at gallantry, although his sharp eyes swept our faces as he closed the door, and stared about the room.

"What! not eat yet?" he exclaimed. "I anticipated my fate to be a lonely meal, for the rascals worked like snails, and I would not leave them rest until all was finished. Faith, the odor is appetizing, and I am hungry as a bear."

The younger priest waved his hand to the servant yet asked softly: "Monsieur Chevet—he is delayed also?"

"He will sup with his men tonight," replied Cassion shortly, seating himself on the bench. "The sergeant keeps guard of the canoes, and Chevet will be useful with those off duty."

The man ate as though nearly famished, his ready tongue unusually silent, and at the conclusion of the meal appeared so fatigued that I made early excuse to withdraw so he might rest in comfort, climbing the ladder to one corner to my own bed beneath the eaves. This apartment, whose only advantage was privacy, was no more than a narrow space between the sloping rafters of the roof, unfurnished, but with a small window in the end, closed by a wooden shutter. A partition of axe-hewn planks divided this attic into two compartments, thus composing the priests' sleeping chambers. While I was there they both occupied the one to the south, Cassion, Chevet and Pere Allouez resting in the main room below.

As I lowered the trap in the floor, shutting out the murmur of voices, I was conscious of no desire to sleep, my mind busily occupied with possibilities of the morrow. I opened the window and seated myself on the floor gazing out at the night. Below extended the priests' garden, and beyond the dark gloom of forest depths.

The way of egress was easy—a mere step to the flat roof of the kitchen, the dovetailed logs of which afforded a ladder to the ground. I had no object in such adventure, but a restless impulse urged me, and, almost before I realized my action, I was upon the ground. Avoiding the gleam of light which streamed from the open window of the room below, I crossed the garden and reached the path leading downward to the shore. From this point I could perceive the wide sweep of water, showing silvery in the dim moonlight, and detect the darker rim of the land. There was fire on the point below the huts, and its red glare afforded glimpses of the canoes—mere blurred outlines—and occasionally the figure of a man, only recognizable as he moved.

I was still staring at this dim picture when some noise, other than the wind, startled me and I drew silently back behind a great stump to avoid discovery. My thought was that someone had left the mission house—Cassion perhaps with final orders to those on the beach—but a moment later I realized my mistake, yet only crouched lower in the shadow—a man was advancing from the black concealment of the woods and crossing the open space.

He moved cautiously, yet boldly enough, and his movements were not those of an Indian, although the low bushes between us and the house shadow, prevented my distinguishing more than his mere outline. It was only when he lifted his head into the gleam of light, and took hasty survey through the window of the scene within, that I recognized the face of D'Artigny. He lingered scarcely a moment, evidently satisfied with what he saw, and then drew silently back, hesitating a brief space, as though debating his next movement.

I waited breathless, wondering what his purpose could be, half inclined to intercept and question him. Was he seeking to serve my cause? To learn the truth of my relationship with Cassion, or did he have some other object, some personal feud in which he sought revenge? The first thought sent the warm blood leaping through my veins; the second left me shivering as if with sudden chill.

Even as I stood, hesitating, uncertain, he turned and retraced his steps along the same path of his approach, passing me not ten steps away and vanishing into the wood. I thought he paused at the edge and bent down, yet before I found voice or determination to stop him, he had disappeared. My courage returned, spurred by curiosity. Why should he take so roundabout a way to reach the shore? What was that black, shapeless thing he had paused to examine? I could see something there, dark and motionless, though to my eyes no more than a shadow.

I ventured toward it, creeping behind the bushes bordering the path, conscious of an odd fear as I drew closer. Yet it was not until I emerged from the fringe of shrubbery that even the faintest conception of what the object was I saw occurred to me. Then I stopped, frozen by horror, for I confronted a dead body.

For an instant I could not utter a sound or move a muscle of my body. My hands clung convulsively to a nearly branch, thus supporting me erect in spite of trembling limbs and I stared at the gruesome object, black and almost shapeless in the moonlight. Only part of the trunk was revealed, the lower portion concealed by bushes, yet I could no longer doubt it was a man's body—a large, heavily built man, his hat still crushed on his head, but with face turned away.

What courage overcame my horror and urged me forward I cannot tell; I seemed impelled by some power not my own, a vague fear of recognition tugging at my heart. I crept nearer, almost inch by inch, trembling at every noise, dreading to discover the truth. At last I could perceive the ghastly features—the dead man was Hugo Chevet.

I nerved myself to the effort, and turned the body sufficiently to enable me to discover the wound—he had been pierced by a knife from behind; had fallen, no doubt, without uttering a cry, dead ere he struck the ground. Then it was murder, foul murder, a blow in the back. Why had the deed been done? What spirit of revenge, of hatred, of fear, could have led to such an act? I got again to my feet, staring about through the weird moonlight, every nerve throbbing, as I thought to grip the fact and find its cause. Slowly I drew back, shrinking in growing terror from the corpse, until I was safely in the priest's garden. There I paused irresolute, my dazed, benumbed brain beginning to grasp the situation and assert itself.

"Why Swear, Dear? Use 'Gets-It' for Corns!"

It's the New Plan. Simple. Sure as Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds.

"Why, John, I never knew you to use such language! I've told you several times it's no use to try those bandages, salves, tapes, plasters, and contraptions for corns. Here's some 'Gets-It'. It's just wonderful how easy 'clear and clean' it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it—there's nothing to stick or roll up, form a bundle of your toe, or press on the corn. It's painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives, razors and scissors, use 'Gets-It' and you'll have a sweeter disposition and no more corns and calluses.

"You Wouldn't Lose Your Temper, John, If You Used 'Gets-It' for Those Corns!"

"Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere. 25c, a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Seymour and recommended as the world's best corn remedy, by C. M. Loerts and H. H. Carter.

Fire Districts.

Seymour's fire map shows that the five wards are divided into twenty-two fire districts and when an alarm is given the fire bell gives the number of the ward in taps, then after a pause the district number is sounded. When calling the telephone exchange for a fire alarm always give the street and number where the fire is located. Don't attempt to call by fire districts.

FIRST WARD.

District 53, bounded by Brown, Poplar, Lynn and McDonald.

District 54, bounded by Brown, Lynn, McDonald and Buckeye.

District 56, bounded by Brown, Buckeye, McDonald and Corporation limits.

Care of the Shoes.

When suede shoes, belts, bags and purses become greasy-looking, rub them with a fine emery paper and it will make them look like new. The small emery board used for manicuring is useful for this. Kerosene will soften leather belts or shoes that have become hard from exposure or dampness.

For removing mildew from leather use a piece of flannel with a little vaseline and rub the mildewed parts. Patent leather shoes may be kept in good condition during the cold weather by rubbing them with a little olive oil and polishing with a piece of cotton flannel. This will keep the leather from cracking and the shoes will always appear new.

Before applying the polish, brush all the mud from the shoes, then wash them with soap and water. Apply this with a soft cloth and dry with a cloth. When this is finished, polish with a good shoe polish and you will be surprised at how well they will look.

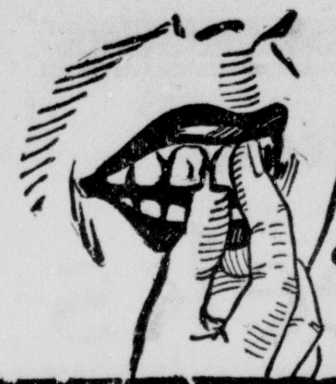

Stains may be taken out of brown shoes by rubbing a piece of cut lemon on them.

Then polish with brown polish. Brown boots and shoes that have stains and spots on them may also be renovated by rubbing them with a piece of flannel dipped in methylated spirits, leaving them to dry before polishing.

Rosebud Powder Box Slip.

Although the modern girl uses powder quite without disguise, its unsightly box, to her fastidious taste, is quite out of place in her well appointed room. So she makes a dainty silk bag, with rosebud finishings, as a slipper, and each passing tin powder box sits in state in a prominent place on the dressing table, on which it is now quite an ornament.

A very little turpentine or cold tea added to black-lead will make grates shine brilliantly.

Escape TOOTH Troubles

—by keeping your teeth REALLY CLEAN.

"But," you say, "I brush my teeth regularly, yet they decay." Yes, you brush them, but do you REALLY CLEAN them? Tonight, after brushing your teeth, examine them closely. You will likely find an accumulation of tartar on the enamel and bits of food deposit hiding in the crevices.

Decay, as well as the dangerous gum disease called Pyorrhea, usually develops only in the mouth where germ-laden tartar is present.

SENRECO, the formula of a dental specialist, keeps the teeth REALLY CLEAN. It embodies specially prepared soluble granules unusually effective in cleaning away food deposits. Moreover, it is particularly destructive to the germ of Pyorrhea.

Go to your dealer today and get a tube of Senreco—keep your teeth REALLY CLEAN and protect yourself against Pyorrhea and decay. Send 4c to Senreco, 304 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio, for liberal-sized trial package.

"Do It Today"

Jackson County Loan and Trust Co.

The Victor.

With joyous shouts, high in the air
Our hats for him who wins are tossed.
But what of him, of honors bare,
Who strove as honestly—and lost?

'E'en though his eyes with tears are dim,
All thought of him will quickly fade
Except when men refer to him
For the poor showing that he made.

And yet we sometimes must confess,
As we see men to honor rise,
Some are less worthy of success
Than he who failed to win the prize

Because he was unfairly used.
By those we thought should him befriend
And that his good name was abused
By some who to such tricks descend.

The world in this seems to delight
Nor of the means employed complains
No matter if by wrong or right
Of one who victory attains.

But we in this may solace find,
View it from any point we choose—
It seems as if it was designed
For some to win and some to lose.

LUTHERAN SCHOOL PICNIC ANNUAL PICNIC AT PARK

Automobile Parade Features Event in Connection With the Closing of School for the Year.

The annual picnic of the German Lutheran school is being held at Shields Park today. This is a feature of the closing exercises of that school and is always largely attended. The automobile parade was held at 1 o'clock and the school children were taken to the park in automobiles. A number of the machines were elaborately decorated for the occasion. The machines of Ferdinand Buhner, Will Reber, Fred Able and Albert Ahlbrand were among those that attracted special attention.

Many of the picnickers took lunch baskets with them and will spend the evening at the park. The Seymour Concert Band gave a concert at Second and Chestnut streets during the parade. The members of the band formed in two lines and the automobiles were driven between them.

The band furnished music during the afternoon and tonight will give the program at the park that was to have been given on the streets last night.

The program for tonight is as follows:

1. March—"Tipping the Victor"....Kinsel Pearce.
2. Overture—"Garden City"....L. Raymond.
3. Waltz—"Loyal Hearts"....J. W. Jenkins.
4. Overture—"Mignonnette"....J. Bauman.
5. Spanish Serenade—"LaPaloma"....Gradier.
6. March—"Blazing the Trail"....H. A. Vanderecock.
7. Mooley—"American War Songs"....L. P. Laurendeau.
8. Novelty March—"Bell Cow"....Geo. Rosenkrans.

SLATE MAYOR FOR TRIAL NEXT

Rollin H. Bunch Says He Wants an Early Trial.

Muncie, Ind., June 15.—Mayor Rollin H. Bunch will be the next defendant in the local graft cases to go to trial. Judge Alonzo Blair of Shelbyville, special judge in the mayor's case, is expected to come to Muncie this week to set the date for the trial, which probably will be the last week in June or the first week in July.

"I want an early trial," Mayor Bunch said. "I will show them that they have a real defense to contend with."

Michael J. Ryan of Indianapolis will be one of Bunch's attorneys. The defense will petition for a jury chosen from outside of Delaware county, it is understood.

Bunch was indicted with Gene Williams, deputy prosecutor; Chief of Police McVaine and other city officials charged with conspiring to solicit bribes from resort owners and blind tiger keepers. Williams, the first man tried, was convicted and sentenced to the Jeffersonville reformatory. He has asked for a new trial, however.

Conclude Negotiations.

London, June 15.—It is understood that the government's negotiations with breweries and saloons in the Carlisle district have been practically concluded. The state will become the absolute owner by purchase. Nothing has been officially announced.

Will Give Slum Children Outing. Elwood, Ind., June 14.—Young People's Christian league, organized here recently, has completed plans to give a ten days' outing to fifty children of the Chicago slums. The children will be brought here and cared for in private homes.

Oil Well Makes Good Showing. Evansville, Ind., June 15.—The oil well drilled in a few days ago near Gentryville has been shot and made a good showing of oil. The well is now pumping.

W. T. Cammeron was in Browns-town today on business.

SOCIAL EVENTS

BIRTHDAY DINNER.

Mrs. Elizabeth Alwes today celebrated her seventy-seventh birthday anniversary at her home on North Popular street and at the noon hour an elaborate course dinner was served to a company of relatives and friends in honor of the occasion. Mrs. Alwes was born in Strassberg, France, now a part of the German empire, and came to this country when a small child. She has lived in this city for many years. She was one of the charter members of the local German M. E. church and throughout her life has been active in the work of that denomination. Her two sons, Charles, of Indianapolis, and Fred, of Louisville, were unable to be present for the dinner today. Her daughters, Mrs. W. H. Burkley, and the Misses Emma, Bertha and Daisy, were among the company. Others for whom plates were laid were: W. H. Burkley, of this city, Mrs. Bertha Kolb, Mrs. Will DeArk, Mrs. Gertrude Schrader, Mrs. John Bear, Mrs. Henry Meyers, Miss Elizabeth Hieb, Miss Georgia Thornton and Miss Jean Schrader, of New Albany, and Mrs. Howard Burkley, of Logansport.

BRIDGES—DISNEY.

The marriage of Miss Bertha Beatrice Bridges and John W. Disney, both of this city, was solemnized at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the parsonage of the First M. E. church, East Third street, the Rev. J. H. Carnes officiating. Only a small company of immediate relatives witnessed the impressive ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bridges. She is a young lady of charming personality and is popular with a large circle of friends. For some time she has been employed as a clerk at the Gold Mine Department store where she made many friends on account of her congenial disposition.

Mr. Disney is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Disney and is an exemplary young man. He is employed at the Ahlbrand Carriage Company. He has a wide acquaintance in this city where he has lived for a number of years.

To Mr. and Mrs. Disney are extended the heartiest congratulations of their numerous acquaintances. They will live on East Laurel street.

ENTERTAINS AT ROOK.

Mrs. Haskell Lett is hostess this afternoon to a company of friends at her home on West Third street for her guests, Mrs. W. K. Abbott and daughter, Miss Charlotte, of Quincy, Ill. Several tables were arranged and the company enjoyed a most delightful afternoon. Cut flowers and greenery cleverly arranged formed the decorations. Late in the afternoon the tables were set for a charming course luncheon.

APPROACHING NUPTIALS.

The marriage of Miss Gladys McMillan, of Medora, and Ralph M. Dodds, of Indianapolis, will take place Sunday at the home of the bride in Medora. The bride is well known in the vicinity of Medora, having taught school in that place for several years. The groom is the proprietor of a grocery in Indianapolis. Mr. and Mrs. Dodds will make their home in Indianapolis.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Miss Mary Lucile Hattabaugh is entertaining a number of her little friends this afternoon in honor of her fifth birthday at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Wilson. Refreshments were served.

The case of Jessie Peacock, Gildard Abel and Virgie Clark, who pleaded not guilty to the charge of trespass which was placed against them yesterday, was called in the city court this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. John H. Kamman was appointed special judge to try the case which lasted throughout the afternoon.

The police are looking for Howard Fisher, a paroled convict, who is alleged to have left the city without paying a board bill and to have carried away two suit cases which he had borrowed.

Albert Walters returned to his home this afternoon after an extended business trip to New York.
